

Scholarly Correspondence on Medieval Germanic Language and Literature Programme

10:00-10:15 - Doors open (coffee/tea)

10:15-10:30 - Word of welcome: Thijs Porck (Leiden University)

10:30-12:30 - Session 1: Nineteenth-century philology and scholarly correspondence

10:30 Ton van Kalmthout (Huygens Institute for the History of the Netherlands)
Nineteenth-century philology and the correspondence of its practitioners

11:00 Oliver Bock (Friedrich-Schiller-Universität Jena)
The correspondence between the English Record Commission and German scholars, 1831-1837

11:30 Beijia Chen (Freie Universität Berlin)
Transmission of Hermann Paul's linguistic ideas from a network perspective

12:00 Amos van Baalen & Jodie Mann (Leiden University)
Pieter Jakob Cosijn's correspondence and scholarly collaboration at the end of the nineteenth century

12:30-14:00 - Break & display of letters and manuscripts [13:00-14:00]

14:00-15:30 - Session 2: Anglo-Saxon scholarship and correspondence

14:00 Kathryn A. Lowe (University of Glasgow)
'A booke in the Saxone language': Family correspondence and Old English in the sixteenth century

14:30 Rachel Fletcher (University of Glasgow)
'Most active and effectual assistance' in the correspondence of Sir William Dugdale and William Somner

15:00 Daniel Thomas (University of Oxford)
'Modest but well-deserved claims': The friendship of Samuel Fox and Joseph Bosworth

15:30-16:00 - Coffee/tea

16:00-17:30 - Session 3: International collaboration and correspondence

16:00 Catherine Squires (Moscow State University)
Early Hanseatic manuscripts in mid-18th-century discourse between Lubeck and Saint Petersburg

16:30 Yves van Damme (Leiden University)
The correspondence between Willem de Vreese and C.G.N. de Vooyoys and the forgotten Philological Turn

17:00 Arend Quak (University of Amsterdam)
The correspondence between A.G. van Hamel and Icelandic scholars

17:30-18:00 - Drinks

Friday 17 November 2017,
University Library Leiden, Vossiuszaal

FREE AND OPEN TO ALL.

REGISTER BY SENDING AN E-MAIL TO: M.H.PORCK@HUM.LEIDENUNIV.NL